

Hunters Trailing One Million Deer

Lansing, Nov. 14.—Most of the approximately 160,000 deer hunters who are expected to attempt to get their buck this month will be in the woods tomorrow, ready for the opening of the 1938 season. Dates for this year's season, Nov. 15 to Nov. 30, inclusive, are the same as for 1937.

Many hunters are already in camp, especially those who go into the more remote regions of the state, such as in the upper peninsula, and who plan to stay through the entire two weeks' season. These hunters usually prefer to get on the ground early in order to have camp in order, provisions in and wood cut before the opening day of the season. A considerable number of hunters went north across the Straits over the week end, with others following today.

As in past seasons, the conservation department is prepared for the fever of activity which the deer hunt always entails, by the transfer of a number of conservation officers from the southern part of the state for special patrol in northern sections. Checking stations will be established at different points in the deer country and moved from place to place frequently. No law enforcement station will be maintained at the Straits, but investigators from the game division will be on hand gathering information from hunters regarding their kill and conditions in the sections where they hunt.

Although last year's number of licensed deer hunters, 157,000 is expected to be exceeded this year and although there are believed to be more deer in Michigan now than ever before, game investigators and conservation officers are not ready to predict a larger kill of bucks than in 1937. Such factors as weather conditions and the proficiency of the hunters play a large part in the season regardless of the amount of game. Last year's kill of bucks totalled about 40,000. Warm weather and a lack of snow at the start of the season handicap the hunters seriously.

Michigan's deer herd is estimated at more than a million animals. The area favorable to deer in the summer includes about 34,500 square miles. The winter range is only about 1,955 square miles.

The Opening Day

Jack Van Coevering under his heading Woods and Waters, in the Detroit Free Press, described the opening day of deer season to a "T". He says in part: "Very early this morning, much earlier than they would ever dream of doing back home, thousands of men tumbled out of hard bunks and camp beds to slip into hunting clothes. Eagerly they donned a cup of coffee, a slice of bacon and a stack of cakes. Carefully they loaded their rifles. Silently they walked off to prearranged positions, to wait for daybreak with nerves atingle. Standing on a vantage point along a runway or on top of a hill, many a gunner down his buck on the opening morning. But do not think it is all as easy as that. A wise old buck with a half dozen years in the swamps or hardwoods is no fool." All of which is very true.

Among the Local Nimrods

Among the lucky local nimrods who filled their licenses before eight o'clock on the first day are: Larry Gailhouse, Robert Dyer, Earl Penn and Mrs. Delbert Wheeler. Others who were lucky the first day include: Jack Papendick, Stanley Owen, Carlyle Brown, Carl Doroh, Ed Gierke, Claude Parker, Mrs. Vern Perry, Norman Butler, Roy Trudgeon, Truman Ingram, Wm. Wilson, Claude Cardinal, Wilson Gierke, Jack Redhead, Arthur Clough, Elmer Neal, Clare Rood.

Don't Get Lost In The Woods

Remember the figure 3. Three blasts on the whistle, three flashes with your flashlight or three shots from your rifle repeated regularly will bring assistance if you are lost in the north woods while deer hunting. The rescue party will answer the nationwide known signal of distress by two signals. Repeat until you are found.

Lyle F. Watters, Regional Forester of the North Central Region of the U. S. Forest Service, said that every year the November records from the CCC camps located in the deer country of the Lake States indicate that several days were spent by the CCC lads looking for lost hunters. Lost deer hunters who forget all about the figure three are the most difficult to find as they never signal but keep on traveling until they become exhausted. The hunter who suddenly finds that the woods have all been turned around is not difficult to locate if he stays in one spot and signals frequently. This type of hunter is seldom in any danger from exhaustion and exposure.

State Conservation Officers and Forest Rangers who live in the deer country say that if the hunter would follow the same precautions in the woods that he follows when visiting a strange city there would be fewer hunting trips ruined because someone got lost.

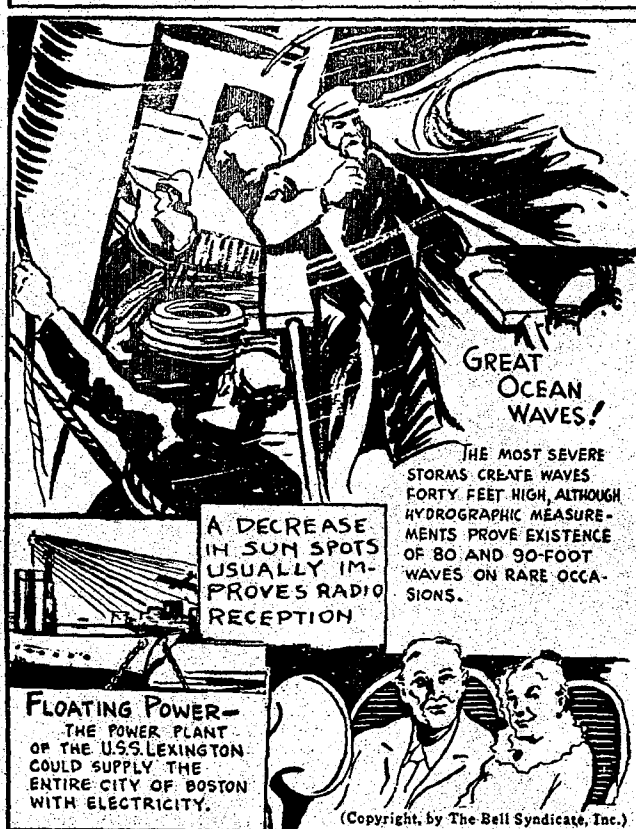

Ask a state conservation officer or a forest ranger about the country you plan to hunt in if you are not familiar with the area yourself. This year the State Department of Conservation and the U. S. Forest Service have established deer checking stations on practically all of the State and National Forests to record the number of hunters and deer they killed. This information will help determine the number of deer which may be killed on an area each year without reducing the desirable size of the herd. Ask the men at the checking stations about the roads, creeks and landmarks in the country you expect to hunt when you go in—ask them for the use of their scales to weigh your deer when you go out.

R. E. Crowell, Supervisor of the Huron National Forest, said checking stations would be maintained in cooperation with the State Conservation Department at the Forest boundary on the Baldwin Road 7 miles northwest of East Tawas; on the County road one mile east of Oscoda; on M-65 three miles north of Hale; on M-33 four miles north of Rose City; at the intersection of M-72 and M-76 six miles east of Roscommon; and on M-208 twelve miles east of Grayling. The information collected at these stations is of considerable value to both the State Conservation Department and the U. S. Forest Service in their game management work, and we request the cooperation of all hunters.

Last year in the Mio district 11,200 hunters were checked at the stations in the district. One hunter out of each seven was successful, there being 1,630 deer taken from this Ranger district. The Mio district lies in the south

Control of Epidemics In School

(By Michigan Department of Health)

The belief is still held by some people that schools should be closed as soon as an epidemic threatens. While there may be circumstances that make this advisable, they are exceptional. As a general policy, schools should be kept open during an outbreak of communicable disease in order that the spread of the infection may be controlled more promptly.

If the school remains open, the children can be kept under close observation. Daily inspection by nurses or physicians will reveal the mild or so-called missed cases that are one of the most difficult problems in epidemic control. Children may have the disease in so light a form that they are absent from school for only a day or two, or perhaps not at all, yet they continue to carry the germs for a considerable time, innocently spreading the infection. If schools are in session, absences can be investigated and cases thus discovered.

Scarlet fever is the disease most commonly responsible for the closing of schools and furnishes perhaps the best illustration of why they should be kept open. Whenever this disease is prevalent in a community, as shown by the presence of from four to ten diagnosed cases for each 100 pupils enrolled, it is fair to assume that there are several times as many mild and missed cases and carriers as there are cases which can be easily diagnosed. The well child who is a "carrier" of the germs furnishes the same problem whether the schools are open or closed, but the mild cases stand a much better chance of detection and isolation if the school is in session.

If the schools are closed, all opportunity for supervision of the children in groups is lost. Moreover, even if it is forbidden, children will gather on the street, in shows, in church or in Sunday school. In rural districts it is a common thing for one family to visit another for Sunday dinner or for the evening. Of course, one family inquires whether the other family is well, but they fail to realize that the children of either family may be missed cases or carriers.

When the schools open, after being closed, the mild and missed cases return, still in the infectious stage, but after any possibility of detecting them is gone.

School and health authorities are urged not to close schools for the purpose of controlling an outbreak of disease without special recommendation from the State Department of Health.

The greatest number of cases in Grayling at any one time has been twenty-five. Only four new cases in the past two weeks have been reported and careful check is made in school each day. The school enrollment is now 641.

half of Oscoda county. In the Tawas district, which is located in Isosco and Alcona counties, 6,600 hunters killed 1,400 legal deer, a success ratio of one kill to every five hunters.

Merit Tests Will Be Given at Grayling

Michigan's new career service Tuesday appealed to young men and women from town and country who are willing to start work at $80 per month with the chance of working up to twice that figure or more.

Announcing a civil service examination for attendant nurses for state institutions, Personnel Director William Brownrigg said youngsters from rural Michigan make satisfactory workers. They must be at least 21 years old, however.

The tests will be given Dec. 3 in Lansing, Detroit, Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Grayling, Manistique and L'Anse. Applications, on blanks available at county clerks' and state employment service offices, must be mailed to the civil service department in Lansing before midnight Nov. 21.

Openings for those successful in the tests are expected at Gaylord, Grand Rapids, Howell, Ionia, Kalamazoo, Lapeer, Newberry, Pontiac, Traverse City, Wahamega and Ypsilanti institutions. Successful applicants will be entitled to jobs as attendant nurses, paying $80 per month at the start up to $100. By promotional procedure it is possible to work up to jobs paying $160 per month or more.

HAD ENJOYABLE CELEBRATION

Legionnaires and their ladies and the Auxiliary members and their gentlemen had a merry time at the Legion hall Friday night, celebrating Armistice Day. There were some 50 present and dancing to music furnished by the Rood brothers made fun for everyone. Beginning the party and adding a lot of spirit, the drum and bugle corps paraded the main thoroughfares, playing lively tunes, and bringing back once again the memories of that first Armistice day twenty years ago.

At midnight, lunch was announced and the crowd found places around four long tables centered with primrose plants. The Auxiliary Unit had three past president pins to present and so took advantage of this occasion to present them and Alfred Hanson did the honors. Mrs. Alfred Hanson, Mrs. J. L. Martin and Mrs. Leo Jorgenson were the recipients.

One of the table decorations and fine to eat too, was a prettily decorated cake with the dates 1918-1938, donated by Mr. Melichar, local baker.

Junior Class Play Nov. 22nd.

The Junior Class of the High School will present their annual play to the public next Tuesday night when the class of 1940 will stage a three-act mystery-comedy titled "Aunt Susie Shoots the Works." It ought to be worth seeing, and just how Aunt Susie fares is a secret that will be disclosed before the audience.

The characters for this production, all members of the Junior Class, include eleven young actors, and is composed of the following people: Esbern Olson, Melvin Nelson, William Kraus, Frank Jensen, Mary Jane Joseph, Arlene Laage, Virginia Peterson, Elvase Granger, Virginia McEvers, Natalie Peterson, and Ruth Burrows. This group has been diligently at work learning their lines and duties, and are going to be able to give a finished portrayal of the troubles of Aunt Susie. Mr. Roberts is in charge of production, and this is indicative of a successful play.

The curtain call is set for 8:00 P. M. Members of the Junior Class have tickets to sell and reserves are available at Mac & Gidley's. Tickets may be purchased there also.

Womans Club

The second regular meeting of the Womans Club was held at the home of Mrs. William Hill at Lake Margrethe.

The members responded to roll call by naming their favorite gadget.

The following program was given:

"Utilizing Music by American Industries"—General Motors, General Electric, Ford (radio music hours)—Mrs. T. P. Peterson.

"Color Schemers"—Miss Josephine Nichols.

"Music Relieves Industrial Tedium"—Mrs. Wm. Hill.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Gerald Poor, at which time Dr. C. R. Keyport will speak to the guests.

DOCTOR KILLS DEER OUT OF SEASON

Monday evening when Dr. C. R. Keyport and A. J. Joseph were coming to Grayling from Pine Ridge Lodge, their attention was attracted by two deer standing beside the highway. The Doctor looked up just in time to see another deer dashing across the highway right in front of his car. There was no time to stop and the animal was struck squarely. It bounded into the air and as it landed the car hit it again, and judging from its appearance every bone in its body was broken. Also the car was badly damaged and had to be hauled in.

Edwin Marshall, Toledo, Marries

The marriage of Jack Marshall of Toledo is of interest to many people around Grayling, where he spent most of his summer days from childhood. We have watched him grow from a young lad to manhood, and it was always a pleasure to meet him on our streets, where hellos were always friendly and cordial. He was a "regular" boy and we know of no finer compliment we can pay a youngster. As he grew to manhood he was dignified and fine and never lost that fine characteristic of friendliness. It is a pleasure to extend best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Jack.

We are privileged to reprint a story of the wedding. It reads as follows:

(From Toledo Blade) The Country club (Toledo) was the scene of one of the autumn's loveliest weddings last week, when Miss Williamene Howard Nelles, youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Nelles became the bride of Edwin John Marshall, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin John Marshall.

Dr. R. Lincoln Long, pastor of Collingwood Presbyterian church, read the service at half past eight in the presence of a small group of relatives and friends.

Preceding the entrance of the bride party through an aisle formed by standards holding white satin ribbons, to the improvised altar in the large lounge, Frederick Seymour and his orchestra played a program of nuptial music.

The fireplace was banked with white chrysanthemums and cybotium ferns. Cathedral standards with tall white tapers cast a soft glow over the setting.

Stately white chrysanthemums were used in profusion throughout the club.

Bridal Gown Is of Ivory Duchess Lace

The attractive bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was most charming in her bridal robes of ivory duchess satin designed by Schiaparelli.

The bodice was fashioned with a V neckline and the shirred shoulders ended at the high fitted waistline which was banded with seed pearls. The long leg-o-mutton sleeves ended in tiny fitted points over the hand. The gored skirt flared gracefully into a court train.

Her long veil of bridal illusion was attached to a coronet of rose point lace, which belonged to the groom's mother. She also carried a rose point handkerchief, an heirloom in the bridegroom's family.

The bridal bouquet was a shower of valley lilies and white orchids.

Attendants Wear Similar Gowns of Blue Taffeta

Mrs. Charles T. Hartner, Jr., was the matron of honor and the bridesmaids included Miss Kathryn Crow, Miss Elizabeth Braun, Miss Molly Allen and Miss Dorothy Rowland.

Mrs. Hartner's gown was a lovely colonial model of Alice blue taffeta, after Maggy Rouff. The bodice was fitted with a sweetheart neckline and short puff sleeves. The circular hoop skirt had loops of velvet ribbon above tiny blue pleatings, caught occasionally with sweetheart bows.

Co-ed rose ostrich tips and Alice blue taffeta bows made a tiny ornament for her hair.

She carried a round bouquet of co-ed pink roses tied with long streamers of velvet and tulle ribbon.

The attendants were all dressed similar to the matron of honor and carried bouquets of the same lovely roses.

The senior Mr. Marshall served his son as best man.

The ushers were Dr. Sprague Gardiner, of Ann Arbor; Thomas Nelles, brother of the bride; G. J. McKie, Jr., Simcoe, Ont.; Douglas Park, Hamilton, Ont.; his brothers-in-law, Daniel S. Hamilton and Samuel Carson.

Mrs. Nelles chose for her daughter's wedding, a smart Milgrim model of black velvet made entrain with a V neckline accented with Pointe de Venice lace. Her corsage was of white orchids. Mrs. Marshall, mother of the bridegroom, wore a stunning gown of powder blue faille made on long, graceful lines with a pointed neckline, and a short train. A spray of pale pink butterfly Dendrobium orchids graced her shoulder.

Reception and Dance Follow the Ceremony

Following the ceremony and reception, supper and dancing were held in the main dining room.

The bridal table was decorated with bridal roses and crystal candelabra holding tall white tapers. A tiered wedding cake was placed in the center. White beech chrysanthemums decorated the small tables for the guests.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Marshall left for New York, from where they will sail Saturday on the S. S. Jamaica for Havana.

Mrs. Marshall traveled in a smart Boy Blue suit, the dress made simply with a high neckline and the long coat having a blue fox collar. Her corsage was of gardenias.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Marshall will reside temporarily at the Park Lane until the completion of their new home on Orchard road, Ottawa Hills.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mrs. C. E. Innes, her son, Edward Innes, Mrs. Paul Donly, Mrs. Frederick Book, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Innes and Douglas Nelles, all of Simcoe, Ont.; Robert Stevens, Ithaca, and R. Kerford Wilson, Buffalo, N. Y.; Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Keyport, Grayling, Mich.—Toledo Blade.

THERE are reasons to believe that many political job holders will be let out when the new administration takes office. That is to be expected. There are, however, many competent and faithful employees who have successfully passed civil service examinations who should be retained. Those who have proven themselves loyal to the state and have done their jobs with credit to themselves and the state, we believe deserve favorable consideration by the incoming administration, and we have faith that that will be done. Those, however, who have been too small for the jobs they are trying to fill, who have accepted pay while they have been off the jobs on pleasure bent or otherwise, who have, in spite of the civil service law, been active in partisan politics, all such deserve no further consideration as far as their political jobs are concerned. The tax payers have had to pay for a lot of service that wasn't required, and they seem to be fed up on it. Some time ago when strikes were popular, this newspaper suggested a tax-payers strike. We hadn't planned it this way, but it seems that the tax-payers did strike with a vengeance on election day. There will always be differences of opinion between parties, and that is as it should be, but when the public feels it is getting gyped, we may look for reaction.

OUR hat's off to the local Republicans for the fine way in which they accepted their victory in the last election. Naturally they were pleased but we heard of no jeering and no humiliating remarks directed toward their party opponents. It pays to be good losers and it pays better to be good winners.

SCHOOL NEWS

Armistice Day

Armistice Day was fittingly observed in the local schools last Friday. At eleven o'clock the bells rang and a minute's silence was observed. In the afternoon an assembly program was held and the day was marked again by appropriate exercises. Mr. Rowland played two trumpet solos in flawless style. The Star Spangled Banner was sung and the pledge of allegiance to the flag was repeated. Nellie Pynninen, Senior Class president, spoke on the meaning and history of Armistice Day after which the address of the day was delivered by Rev. Kuhlman on the topic "Finding Our Way." Robert Welsh and William Bollinger were helpful as living examples of captain and deckhand, while Mr. Kuhlman read Edgar Guest's poem, "The Making of a Captain." After this taps were played while the curtains were drawn to focus attention on the flag.

Kindergarten Gets Trainride

Last Friday afternoon Miss Tapio took her two sections of Kindergarten on a real trainride. The party left Grayling at 3:00 p. m. enroute for Roscommon where the group was met by car driven by parents. The youngsters had a great time on what was the first train ride for most of them. They inspected the engine and generally got an eyeful. When they got off the train in Roscommon, they were served a lunch by interested parents, and so, all in all, it was quite a party. The parents who drove down to bring the wayfarers back were Mrs. Hilton, Mrs. Carl Hanson, Mrs. Bond, Mrs. Souders, and Mrs. Kessler. The whole expedition netted the Michigan Central one fare to Roscommon, one way.

The Couzens' Foundation made Grayling High School its Crawford county center on Monday and took X-rays of upwards of thirty people. This activity is part of its work in the prevention and control of tuberculosis, and was a direct result of skin tests made through the schools earlier in the year.

A period that sees the gym put to active and constructive use comes each day for grade pupils between the time that their room dismisses and the time that the high school team takes the floor. This period of forty-five minutes is used for organized and directed games under supervision and for the past two years has been very popular.

One new typewriter has been added to the school equipment this year. The demand for machines exceeded the capacity of the commercial room. Three new tables for bookkeeping classes have been built and the room rearranged. This increases the capacity of the room by twelve.

A rack for lunch boxes has also been built so that noon-hour pupils may have a place to keep their lunches. The hot lunch program will be resumed again this year.

The Red Cross drive has gotten well under way throughout the school. All grades and classes are planning to join and 100% membership which was achieved last year is expected again.

The band is coming along fast in its development. Real musical talent is being developed and the results of much preliminary practice will soon be seen.

The seats in the auditorium have all been marked and numbered so that the seats may be more easily located when plays and other entertainments are staged. This is a big improvement.

Charles Wylie, former student of Grayling High School, was heard from in a very nice way last week. Five copies of different books written by LeRoy Snell were received by the school, the gift of the author by way of the Olivet College book store, operated by Wylie. Mr. Snell is now connected with Olivet College as Director of Publicity. His works are stories for boys of the great Northwest, and the five books received have been placed in the library.

Michigan Mirror

Lansing—Swinging of the pendulum of public opinion in protest against labor radicalism—the 1937 sit-down strikes in automobile and manufacturing factories, retail stores and even private utility plants—has returned the Republicans into power and responsibility in Michigan.

It was not so much an affirmative vote of confidence in Frank Fitzgerald and the remainder of the Republican state and legislative ticket. It was a ballot protest.

For many months political observers have been aware of a "jelling" of public opinion against the over-enthusiastic demonstrations in Michigan of the C.I.O. Lewis' defeat in the Detroit municipal election was a forerunner. Gallup polls have consistently shown that the C.I.O. was in high disfavor with the electorate.

In the judgment of this commentator, the November election afforded the people of Michigan their first opportunity to spank the sit-downers. And in doing so, they had to spank Governor Frank Murphy and his administration. It was just inevitable.

Republicans in Control
The beneficiaries of the ballot protest were the Republicans who return to authority again at Lansing.

Whereas Governor Murphy had an unruly state senate, with the balance of power in the hands of Republicans and a few conservative Democrats, Mr. Fitzgerald will have no legislative alibis in 1939.

The senate is under Republican control 23 to 9, while the house is predominantly G.O.P., 74 to 26.

Presiding over the Senate will be 80-year-old Luren D. Dickinson, of Charlotte, a man of remarkable mental power who returns to Lansing for his eighth term as lieutenant governor. Dickinson's popularity is an indirect compliment to the "oldsters" in Michigan, many of whom favor the Townsend Plan.

Fitzgerald catered to Townsend support with a promise to ask the legislature to pass a resolution urging Congress to consider the $200-a-month pension scheme.

Case and Brown
Country editors fared well in the Michigan election.

Within a few thousand votes of Murphy was Leon D. Case, secretary of state who publishes a weekly paper at Watervliet. Case led Nowicki, Starr, Fry and Gundry in popular support.

Next to Dickinson and heading other Republican nominees for state office was Vernon J. Brown, aspirant for auditor general. Brown is editor-publisher of the Ingham County News at Mason and is completing his tenth year of service in the legislature.

Significant also is the fact that Case and Brown consider their newspapers to be "independent" in politics.

Van Wagoner in Power
The No. 1 man of the Michigan Democratic party today is Murray D. Van Wagoner, commissioner of the state highway department.

Two weeks before the balloting his department conducted a secret "straw vote" throughout the state. It showed Fitzgerald to be a sure winner and estimated the plurality at 45,000.

Van Wagoner, a practical politician, had foreseen the election result last summer when he weighed the advisability of becoming a candidate for governor in open opposition to Murphy. Reviewing summer political events you will recall that Leo J. Nowicki who opposed Murphy's labor policies and served sit-downers with a snappy ultimatum while the governor was away on a speaking tour, was also in a willing mood to sidetrack Murphy in the primary, if he could. Furthermore, Edward Fry, state chairman, had openly spanked the governor at Mackinac Island in a caustic statement that was almost unprecedented. His brother, Theodore Fry, has made no secret of his dislike of Murphy's policies and was quite reluctant to become a candidate for a fourth term.

All this is political history. Like a jig-saw puzzle, it assumes a definite pattern in the light of Nov. 2.

Campaign Financing
The attitude of so-called "Big Business" in the recent campaign was unexpected.

Whereas you might have thought that industrial plutocrats would rush into the Republican state central committee's arms with open checkbooks—considering the labor grip which they have experienced and the possibility of a baby Wagner act and a wage-hour act in 1939—they actually did nothing of the kind.

In fact, the state committee was secretly disappointed.

Automobile manufacturers were cool as proverbial cucumbers. James Thomson, the Jackson chairman of the Republican state committee, spent fully half of his time trying to scrape together enough money to meet each week's payroll. Officers of General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and other companies were adamant to pressure.

With no campaign gift strings of this kind attached to him, Fitzgerald may surprise legislators with a liberal labor program. It is possible.

One Amendment Wins

Only one amendment, the "Good Roads" prohibition of gas tax and vehicle license diversion, survived the general protest vote No. 8.

This amendment was backed by the Good Roads Federation who utilized every media to publicize it. Newspaper advertising was employed on a state-wide scale to present arguments for adoption.

Reminiscences

(The following article was written from an interview with our local editor and published in the Bay City Times.)

GRAYLING—From sawdust streets, lined with nine saloons to take care of the roaring lumberjacks and rivermen who came in to "paint the town red" each payday, O. P. Schumann, editor and publisher of the Crawford Avalanche here, has watched Grayling develop into the busy northern Michigan resort town it is today—the center of a four-season playground area.

Mr. Schumann and his family came to Grayling in 1911, traveling from Grand Rapids on the G. R. & I. to Walton Junction and then across through the forests on the old Manistee and North-eastern railway to Grayling.

The first week after their arrival, some of the worst forest fires ever experienced in northern Michigan broke out. Oscoda and AuSable, at the mouth of the AuSable river, burned out. The terrible catastrophe at Metz occurred. Over at Houghton Lake the $50,000 mill of the Michelson Co. burned down. Fires broke out all around Grayling and for some time the situation was serious.

"In those days, we had nothing but sand trails to drive over," Mr. Schumann recalled. "The 27-mile drive to Gaylord from Grayling used to take from two and a half to three hours. And that was termed 'reckless driving' in those days. Now with our modern paved highway, US-27, it takes 30 minutes or less."

We had few sidewalks then; mostly just sand paths along the sawdust streets. An old wooden water main system served the town. Our first sewage system emptied into the AuSable river.

"Today we have a modern water system with iron mains, an elevated water tank, and abundance of excellent water from driven wells. We have a new sewage disposal plant and our modern sewer system is being extended."

"During the first years I was here, it took nine saloons to take care of the needs of lumberjacks and rivermen. Those were thrilling days—I'm glad I had the opportunity to see some of that old life in the northern Michigan woods. In 1919, we saw the military camp of the National Guard opened. Along about that time, the decline of the lumbering business in this area started and the large mills gradually closed."

"Now Grayling is the center of a large resort and recreational area, with some agriculture and manufacturing. One of the largest flooring mills—the Kerry & Hanson Flooring Co.—operates here. And the National Log Construction Co. manufactures airlock logs for cabin construction."

"We advertise Grayling now as a four-season playground area. Trout fishing in the spring. Scores of families from Cleveland, Chicago, Toledo, Detroit, Saginaw, Bay City and other cities come here to live in the summer time at their cottages and cabins where they enjoy good swimming and fishing, and recreation in the forested areas. August brings our annual Canoe Carnival on the AuSable river. Later in the fall comes hunting for both small and big game, and the early part of January witnesses the beginning of our annual winter sports activities."

"Yes, sir, here have been plenty of changes since those early days in 1911 when I came here, but it's been fun to take part in Grayling's development."

Floyd D. Barnes, Pastor.

Salt-Glaze Stoneware in Use in Twelfth Century

The invention of salt-glaze stoneware is a very early one. Some authorities claim it was produced in Germany in the Twelfth century. At one time it was produced in great quantities at Cologne and other cities on the Rhine. Cologne being the great market center, it was commonly known as Cologne ware. Salt glaze was introduced into England during the Sixteenth century, probably by some itinerant workman from western Germany or Flanders, as it did not require a great deal of skill if the proper kilns were set up. John Dwight of Fulham, however, is generally credited with being the first to produce the ware in that country, having taken out a patent in 1671. Said patent sets forth that "he had discovered the Mystery of the stone-ware vulgarly called Cologne ware."

Dwight died in 1703, and the "mystery" of the finer stonewares was buried with him, writes Alice R. Rollins in the Los Angeles Times. Whether or not he was the first to produce salt glaze in England, there is no question of the originality and high quality of his products.

The process of salt-glaze white ware is described by J. F. Blacker, in his book on English salt glaze, as follows: "The salt glaze is formed by the action of salt thrown into the kiln, when the temperature is judged to be the highest, just before active firing ends." A distinguishing feature of the ware is the well-marked, tiny pinholes or depressions which cover the surface. The glaze is so thin and so entirely a part of the ware that it reveals the coloring and the mold marks distinctly.

Gross Statue Erected by The American Physicians

Dr. Samuel D. Gross, pioneer, surgeon, teacher and author, was held in such esteem by members of his profession that when a statue was erected in the grounds of the Smithsonian institution the pedestal was inscribed:

"American physicians erected this statue to commemorate the great deeds of a man who made such an impress upon American surgery that it has served to dignify American medicine."

The man who won such distinction began his study of medicine at the age of 17 and continued active until he died at the age of 79.

Born July 8, 1805, in Pennsylvania, writes Leslie Hartley in the Washington Star, Samuel D. Gross, as a farm boy, studied the fauna and flora of that section, and by close observation learned the calls of birds and the habits of animals, and he later claimed that his woodlore was of great benefit to him throughout his medical career.

After he began the study of medicine he sought the best education he could obtain, and was to become one of the greatest of American surgeons. He also made valuable contributions to medical science and wrote a number of books.

One of the founders of the American Medical association, Doctor Gross was also the founder of the American Surgical Society and other groups, and received several degrees in recognition of his outstanding achievements.

Postmasters General in Cabinet

From the organization of the federal government down to the year 1829 the postmasters general were not recognized as members of the cabinet. The first postmaster general under the present Constitution was Samuel Osgood of Massachusetts, appointed by President Washington September 26, 1789. He was regarded as the head of a bureau. But it was not until 40 years later, when Andrew Jackson became President, that the postmaster general was asked to sit as a member of the cabinet. President Jackson nominated William T. Barry of Kentucky to the office of postmaster general and invited him to a seat in the cabinet. Since then the head of the post office department has been considered a member of the cabinet.

Origin of Slave Churches

The origin of the quaint and beautiful Norwegian slave churches is somewhat uncertain, but it is thought that they were fashioned after the style of the Viking ships. In a country where shipbuilders were the best carpenters, wooden buildings erected by them were likely to be influenced by the traditions of the shipyard. Many features support this theory, such as the method of locking the planks together, and the practice of carving and ornamenting the gables with dragons' heads seems to suggest that they were borrowed from the dragon-head beaks of the Vikings' ships.

Financed the American Army

Haym Salomon was born in Poland and came to the United States an exceedingly poor immigrant. By industry and thrift he had acquired a fortune at the time of the Revolutionary war and at once in every way possible aided the patriots. He was reported to have loaned to Robert Morris in order to finance the American army and the government, more than $350,000. The invasion of New York destroyed the records and vouchers which would have established his claim had he cared to make it. He, however, made no attempt to obtain recompense and refused to press a claim.

MILK-PRICE FIXING

Marketing agricultural surpluses at a profit is the objective sought by influential groups of Michigan growers.

Milk producers are toying with the idea of a state milk price-fixing act which would guarantee a fair basic price to the dairy industry and at the same time not penalize the consumer. A legislative commission is studying the plan which comes from the East, and a bill will be ready for introduction in Lansing next January.

Michigan apple and potato growers are determined to do something in a cooperative way to combat the advertised virtues of Maine and Idaho potatoes and Washington apples. These two products mean millions of dollars a year to Michigan growers, yet the Michigan home market has been unable to compete with imported foodstuffs.

Standardized grading, and packaging of apples and potatoes are also sought by growers who propose that the state join them in financing a marketing-advertising campaign.

Upper Peninsula farmers are interested in spud prospects, for climatical conditions there are ideal for good potato growing and there is plenty of room for expansion.

GASOLINE—WHAT IS IT?

Pigs are pigs, and gasoline can be cheap and inferior and still be gasoline to many motorists.

Out of the recent price war has come a suggestion that producers, refiners and the state department of agriculture co-operate in grading gasoline so that the consumer is fully informed what he is getting.

This state regulation would be done without added taxes.

Auto Accidents in Michigan During 1937

SOMEONE INJURED EVERY 17 MINUTES

... You May Be Next!

Does that frighten you? We hope it does. That's plain, blunt and cruel, isn't it? But almost every accident is the result of someone's carelessness. Are you the guilty one?

No . . . a thousand times no . . . you say. The careless driver seldom admits his fault because careless drivers are not always aware of the fact that they are endangering the lives of pedestrians and other motorists. They don't all know the law and because they have been driving for years they feel that any mishap must be the other fellow's fault. Long experience in driving does not make a good driver. Give us the one who is not too cocksure of his ability to avoid an accident. Give us the driver who will be courteous. Give us the careful driver of little experience who respects life and property.

Tourist Dollars

Michigan's central location in the Mid-West where millions of people dwell has made the state a favorite with tourists.

It's Big Business, and no fooling!

Figures compiled by the American Automobile association, the U. S. department of agriculture, and the four tourist associations of the state indicate that Michigan had approximately 10,700,000 visitors during the past resorting season. This was a 10 per cent decrease from the 1937 volume, or a 1938 estimated gross income of $300,000,000.

Noticeable was the growing popularity of week-end trips. In the "tourist" classification of legislation will be fishing and hunting bills, state park bills, and conservation measures in general. Along with more good roads, northern Michigan wants improved facilities for accommodating and entertaining the out-of-state visitors.

Why not have a football tournament to prove the merits of tea, coffee, and cigarettes? In last week's Saturday Evening Post were page ads telling of the merits of each of the three drugs. Still another page ad told how cigarettes win football games. Why doesn't some shrewd coach train his gridders on all three and make a Rose Bowl trip a certainty.—Nelson D. THE
HUMAN EYE
CANNOT OVERPOWER LIONS
AND OTHER WILD ANIMALS

It was once popularly supposed that there was some power in the human gaze which could conquer wild animals and cause them to be awed. However, animal trainers do not trust their lives to their ability to look an animal in the eye. Animals are more affected by the movements and attitudes of the trainer than by his eyes. In fact, many trainers say that their animals do not even look at their eyes. And, as Sir Francis Galton once remarked, who ever succeeded in eyeing down a mosquito or an angry bee?

Interesting Letter About Great West

FORMER GRAYLING WOMAN TELLS EXPERIENCES

Chelan, Wash.
 Oct. 30, 1938
 Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Schumann,
 Grayling, Mich.

Neighbors Schumann:

I have that many times I would write you, but I have been so busy seeing things that I could not get to it.

I arrived in Spokane on January 1 and stayed with my brother until March 26 then came over here to my nephews, G. M. Pennell. He visited us in '27 at Grayling. While in Spokane I was out to my brother's mink ranch several times. He has a large and very complete ranch. Right now he has 1702 mink. It is the work of seven men to care for them; each one in his own little pen. And are they snappy little fellows! No petting them. It takes from 70 to 100 pelts to make a coat.

This west is a wonderful country. Right now I looked out of my window and saw a cloud drop in between two mountain peaks, the peaks showing back above the clouds then the cloud slowly raised and the valley was all clear. This village is surrounded by mountains. No way to get out only over a mountain, unless you fly. There is an amphibian plane kept here all the time.

The town is about 1800 population. They have a school of 800 pupils; 237 in high school, and a corps of 30 teachers. One poor teacher has 71 to look after. They have a school band of 35 pieces. This school district is better than 800 square miles. The scholars are brought over the mountains in big buses.

I have been on some great sightseeing trips. We took one trip over the mountains where there were 11 hairpins to get up one mountain. That means you turned 22 times. When we got to the top we could look down and see the road at the bottom and every turn.

The mountains are very rocky, but still trees manage to grow on them; mostly evergreens. Then too there will be a level spot of from 1 acre to ten and there will be an apple orchard there, watered by pipe lines (you can see the pipe lines running in every direction over the mountain sides) and the fruit hangs so thick on the trees they spend days thinning them so as to give them a chance to grow. They will put as many as 50 props under one tree to hold up the branches, they are so heavy with fruit.

The soil here is volcanic ash and seems very fertile. It looks odd to see those orchards perched up on the mountainside.

This town is on Lake Chelan. It is about 60 miles in length, and is the third deepest lake in the world. It is as green as the ocean; great rocky cliffs rise right from the water's edge for more than two-thirds of its shore line.

There is a big gold mine. (The Golden) 35 miles up the lake, and no way to get to it except by steamer. There are about 2000 people up at the mine and they are building some very good buildings there now. The ore is all washed after it is taken from the mine, and the largest of the gold taken out, then the concentrate is shipped down the lake in great cars about 6 feet in diameter by 8 feet high, on barges to Chelan, where it is loaded onto trucks and taken 3 miles to the Great Northern R. R. and shipped to a smelter. A truck can only draw two of the cars at a load. Lake Chelan is 11,000 feet above sea level in the lowest place, so you see we are high here.

I was on one trip where we got so high that my ears stopped up and began to ring; one child in the party had nosebleed. It was some altitude! We could see for 50 miles and it did not look more than 3 or 4.

We are 40 miles from Wenatchee, the apple city of the world, where they made the big apple pie, but you will see that in the movies for every company had their man there. On the road to Wenatchee there is high up on the mountainside an exact replica of Lincoln's head, carved out of the solid rock. They have a Lincoln log cabin there and are making it a showplace. To give you an idea of the size of this head, the nose is 20 feet long and of course it is all in proportion, and it is just nature's handiwork. If they had that rock back East they would make a fortune out of it; here they just drive by it and say "There's Lincoln's rock." Never even stop unless you beg them to.

The forty miles from here to Wenatchee is right down the Columbia river; river on one side of the road and high rocky cliffs on the other. The road has been blasted out of the solid rock for miles and miles. In one place they could not go over so they tunneled thru a mountain. You turn on your lights and drive 5 miles an hour, but the road is a 2-track road all the way, but no guard rails to speak of. If you don't watch your step, off you go down hundreds of feet into the mad racing Columbia.

Last Sunday we drove to Coulee Dam—128 miles. We left Chelan at 9:30, drove 20 miles to Antioch and there got the ferry and were taken across the Columbia river for 50c. They have a ferry that will carry six cars. The river is so swift that they have a big cable across the river and a cable fastened to each end of the boat and to this big cable that is stretched across the river; in that way the boat can work

To Make A Long Tale Short

We had to laugh at the come-back of a lad who when told that ants could lift 50 times their own weight, said: "Why, that's nothing, yesterday I saw a hornet 'lift' my father!" You'd be proud to give any of your friends a "lift" if you were driving one of the cars listed below:

YOUR ELECTRIC DOLLAR

BUYS MORE COMFORT, CONVENIENCE, HEALTH AND HAPPINESS FOR YOU AND YOUR FAMILY, THAN ANY OTHER DOLLAR YOU SPEND.

JUST THINK OF IT!

LIGHTING — COOKING — WATER HEATING — REFRIGERATION — RADIO — WASHING — IRONING — SWEEPING — VENTILATING — PUMPING
 And many other household chores, all for only a very few cents a day.

ELECTRICITY IS THE BEST SERVANT ON EARTH

It is always ready at the flick of a switch to do all those things for you—exactly when and as you want them done. Always on the job—never quits—never sick—never argues or talks back—takes no holidays or vacations—never in the way but always at hand when needed.

—And such a servant is yours to command at wages so low it seems almost impossible that so much can be had for so very little.

Your Electric Servant is quite different than we humans—he likes to work overtime—the more you work him the better he likes it and the cheaper he works. Think that over—it is absolutely true!

So why not make Electricity do more of your work?
 It is Cheap and Dependable

Good Eyesight is precious—Protect it for Young and Old with plenty of properly diffused Electric Light. Buy L. E. S. Table, Floor and Wall Lamps. ("I. E. S." stands for "Illuminating Engineering Society"). They take your eyesight into account.

MICHIGAN PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY

"A TAXPAYING CITIZEN WHEREVER WE SERVE"

long, and reach the Canadian border. When we started for home, we got in a long line of cars that was standing on the mountain road; a big red flag across the road. We waited and waited, then boom! bang! off went a big charge of dynamite. They were blasting in the tunnels that are being driven back into the mountains. It boomed and echoed as the sound it the rocks across the river for over one minute; it was about 15 minutes before we were allowed to go slowly up over the mountain. We then wended our way back to Lake Chelan, tired, but oh what sights we had seen.

Well this letter has gone on and on. If you can't read it all in one sitting, make it into a continued story.
 I hope you are all well. I never felt better in my life; have gained 15 pounds in weight.

 Truly your friend,
 Maude Cooley,

POTPOURRI

Dust Over Cities

The air contains much more dust than ordinarily realized, especially in areas surrounding large industrial centers. It has been estimated that a week's rain over London, England, a city noted for its smoke and resulting dirt, will bring to earth about 8,000,000 tons of dirt. While aggravating, dust is not necessarily unhealthy.
